TACOMA TENSE AS KIDNAP CASE NEARS CLIMAX

Home Scene of Intense Activity as Ransom Deadline Approaches

FATHER AND UNCLE AWAY

Believed Trying To Deliver $200 000 Demanded for Release of Child

(Copyright 1935
by The Associated Press)
TACOMA Wash May 29—Tacoma grew tense today as the city interpreted a lull around the J P Weyerhaeuser home as indicating the family would pay $200 000 ransom for the return of nine year old George Weyerhaeuser before the deadline tonight

Retiring after midnight the household from which the curly haired lumber heir was snatched last Friday was awake and stirring again at dawn

John Philip Weyerhaeuser father of the missing lad was nowhere to be seen and was believed with J Rouman Titcomb uncle of the missing boy and mentioned as probable contact man for negotiations with the kidnapers Titcomb and a man believed to be Weyerhaeuser left the lumber family's home last night and did not return

Receive Registered Mail

Their departure a few hours after the family received a registered letter recalled that the kidnapers said in the ransom note You will be notified where to go when the time comes

Mrs Weyerhaeuser griefstricken mother of the boy also left her home for an hour last night in the Titcomb automobile She may have gone to Titcomb's suburban home at American lake to visit her three other children The trio—Ann 13 Philip 10 and Elizabeth 2—was rushed to the seclusion of her brother home shortly after delivery of the note

This unprecedented activity on the eve of the deadline set for payment of the ransom was regarded as significant If the $200 000 was not paid on time harm was threatened to George by the kidnaper egoist described today by Dr Harry R Hoffman Chicago psychiatrist as definitely homicidal if trapped

Told of Thumping Noise

Indicative of the tenseness in this rumor filled Puget sound city was a call that sent the police flying squadron to an abandoned house a mile south of the Weyerhaeuser mansion early today

They had received a report someone perhaps the kidnap victim was pounding on the walls in a desperate effort to escape Eight officers forced their way into the building followed the sound of thudding blows to the third story attic where they found a loose window banging in the wind

It was just one of many night alarms increasing as the hour for payment of the ransom drew nearer

The deadline for payment of the $200 000 is 6 35 o clock tonight

Readiness of the parents to meet the demand was shown in their re

Commerce and Industry Clinging To Code Rules

Blue Eagle Dead Legally But Business Retains Its Wage and Hour Standards

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO May 29—The spirit of the blue eagle still lives in many sections of America's far flung industrial front

Legally the blue eagle may be as dead as the dodo bird because of the supreme court's decision but reports which poured into this cross roads of America today indicated that many large industries were standing by their present standards of hours and wages despite the high court's ruling

The report that the blue eagle's spirit is still fluttering came from widely separated industrial centers They included statements to this effect from Philip K Wrigley president of the William Wrigley Jr Co gum manufacturers John McKinlay president of Marshall Field & Co the International Association of Blue Print and Allied Industries the Chrysler Motor Car Co the Retail Merchants association of San Francisco and many others

Expects Continued Observance

From Claret P Mapes secretary of the Mid Continent Oil & Gas association came the opinion that he imagined the entire code set up will hold together awaiting further legislation for the time being

While industrial and business leaders were attempting to reassure their employes that the NRA standards of hours and wages would be maintained movements were started in various sections to perpetuate the spirit of the blue eagle They included the introduction of a resolution in the Massachusetts legislature calling upon President Roosevelt to indorse a movement begun in that state two years ago by which minimum wages and other related matters would be established by law instead of codes On the other side of the continent the Retail Druggists association of

$586,000 MORE THAN OFFER MADE BY CITY

Proposal Rejected But Counter Plan Will Be Offered Within Few Days

DIFFER ON STOCK VALUE

Claim Securities Do Not Represent Actual Investment in Plant

A price difference of $586 000 stood between the city of Marion and the Community Water Service Co of New York at the close of a conference held this morning in the course of the city's negotiations to purchase property of the Marion Water Co

John H Murdock attorney for the water company refused the city's offer to pay approximately $1 164 000 which city officials and members of the citizens utility committee had regarded as the equivalent of 100 cents on every dollar actually invested in the property

Murdock submitted a counter proposal authorized by directors of the Community Water Service Co to sell the property for $1 750 000 which he described as being approximately $303 000 less than the amount "actually invested in the company

To Offer Counter Proposal

City officials and citizens utility committee members attending the conference refused this offer and informed Mr Murdock the city will prepare a written counter offer and submit it to the company within the next few days

Those attending the conference were Mr Murdock Stewart Hoover a Columbus attorney retained by the company George Whysall manager of Marion Water Co Mayor Clarence A Bolin City Solicitor Theodore H Orhn Service Director C K Mercer Councilman H F Bell Fire Chief T J McFarland J W Jacoby and Fred W Warner Marion attorneys representing the Citizens Utility committee

An apparent misunderstanding as to the amount of money involved in the city's offer made at an earlier conference May 3 to purchase the property for 100 cents on each dollar invested in the property complicated negotiations at this morning's conference

Whereas city officials understood the offer to represent approximately $1 164 000 Mr Murdock explained that directors of the Community Water Service Co assumed the offer involved $2 051 872 the amount shown by the company's records to be invested in the company

It was brought out during the conference that the city ignored an item in the company's book value of $889 772 for common stock Attorneys Warner and Jacoby argued with Mr Murdock that the common stock did not represent an investment in the water company property Mr Murdock agreed that the actual investment in the property was only slightly more than $1 600 000 but asserted that $2 051 872 is the amount invested in the company

Price of Common Stock

When Attorneys Jacoby and Warner attacked the $889 772 common stock figure Mr Murdock declared the Ohio Cities Water Cor

HOLLYWOOD Calif May 28 29—Hurray for the old Constitution Nobody wants to see that old lady led astray But wouldn't this amendment to her be helpful?

When congress passes a law, or a President exceeds his authority have some person notify the Supreme Court what has happened and get them to examine the medicine and see if it's poison before it's given to the patients and not at the funeral"

This amendment would make the Supreme Court a preventative and not an autopsy jury

STOCKS REGAIN PART OF LOSS

Market More Composed as Selling Pressure Tends To Slacken.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 29—Markets were still dizzy today from the overdose of confusion taken in the wave of NRA's sudden downfall but there were some signs of recovery in several quarters.

Selling pressure slackened considerably in stocks and some groups were able to work a little higher despite heaviness in industrials and metals. Bonds showed definite improvement in the corporate division but U. S. governments had little interest in affairs of the day and rested. Wheat and other grains got off on the right foot but encountered pressure and slipped back. Cotton remained under the influence of European selling and foreign exchanges showed little change despite the financial and political tension in France.

After absorbing a flurry of selling at the opening, stocks were considerably heartened by the appearance of good buying among rails and utilities and the entire list stiffened toward the end of the first hour. Further offerings of industrials and mining shares however, held a broad stripe of irregularity over the market as a whole. Prominent trading favorites displaying steadiness included American Telephone, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, Consolidated Gas, North American, Public Service of New Jersey and Allied Chemical.

As the wreckage of NRA was being slowly cleared away and the processes of readjustment to changed conditions surrounding trade and industry got underway, traders busied themselves with a study of individual stocks in an effort to chart their probable course over the future months. Particular attention was given those concerns known to have accumulated large inventories under high cost NRA conditions.

While utility executives claimed to be far more interested in the hearings begun in the senate on the Wheeler-Rayburn bill than anything else, it was an open secret that many had sensed a turn in their favor in the high court's repudiation of the recovery act inasmuch as federal legislation dealing with the industry formed a prominent spoke in the new deal hub along with NRA.

GRAIN PRICES DROP SHARPLY IN CHICAGO

Prices Influenced by 5 Cent Break in Quotations at Minneapolis.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, May 29—Influenced by a break of 5 cents a bushel in the Minneapolis wheat market, the maximum limit allowed, grain values here suffered sharp setbacks late today.

On the tumble in prices, Chicago May and July wheat and all deliveries of oats and rye reached a new low record for the season. There was a general dearth of aggressive buying support during the descent of the markets.

California Oarsmen Get Coveted Lane for Poughkeepsie Race.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 29—Seven varsity, four junior varsity and five freshmen crews, the smallest armada in a decade, will match oars in the annual Poughkeepsie Regatta, June 18.

The total entry of 16 is two less than last year. For the first time in the history of the classic which goes back to 1895 Cornell has entered no freshman crew and Columbia no candidate for junior varsity honors. Massachusetts Tech is among the missing for the first time since 1929.

Washington and California came out well in the draw for lanes, California varsity getting the coveted Number 1 lane, under the shelter of the west shore where winds are less liable to play havoc, and Washington drawing the same lane for the three mile junior varsity pull. Navy drew this lane in the two mile freshman race.

Circus Stars Entertain Luncheon Club Members

Performers Appear on Program Before Joint Meeting of Rotary and Kiwanis

Some of the stars of the Hagenbeck-Wallace and Forepaugh-Sells circus gave the program of entertainment at a joint luncheon meeting of the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs at noon today at Hotel Harding, providing one of the most interesting and colorful hours of entertainment on the club's program this year. One hundred and thirty men were present.

Rex DeLan, production manager of the circus, served as master of ceremonies and introduced the entertainers, his wife, Elaine DeLano, who is the prima donna of the circus; Alfredo Codona, equestrienne director and head of the Flying Codonas, three members of the Christiani troupe of equestrians and Bert Nelson, animal trainer.

Nelson, considered one of the world's finest trainers of wild animals, made his talk humorous and at the same time gave serious consideration to the questions put to him by the club men.

Cockeyed Lions

One of the most frequent of the questions asked him, he said, is whether it is true that you have to look an animal in the eye while training him. To that Nelson's reply is, "Yes, you have to look it in the eye, but the trouble is that occasionally you come in contact with a cockeyed lion."

A wild animal can be tamed, he shot back at one man who asked which was the easier to tame, a wild animal or a woman.

Nelson stopped as erroneous the belief that the tiger is more difficult to train than the lion because, he said, the lion is harder. Contrary to belief, he said, the male animal is the hardest to train.

A roar of laughter greeted his answer, "I was also married once," when a member of the Kiwanis club asked him what he considered his most thrilling escape. Turning serious almost immediately, he told of giving an exhibition to a company of visitors at the winter quarters at Peru, Ind. He was in the cage with his lions and tigers when one of the animals made a dash at another on the other side of the cage. The other animals joined in the melee and all he could do was dash for the safety door, yanking madly to get it opened. On the other side was a helper pulling equally hard the other way and Nelson was virtually trapped until the helper discovered his error in the nick of time and the trainer jumped to safety.

Tell of Picture Work

Nelson and Codona each related their experiences in the making of the picture, "Tarzan," in which Codona doubled for Johnny Weissmuller in his trapeze flying through the jungle and Nelson doubled for the star in some of the wild animal scenes.

rious parts of the nation were illustrated in detail in the page. Born in Chillicothe, he often brought persons from that city into his drawings. Always he gave emphasis to his love of the out of doors.

The suddenness of his death shocked the community. He had been in his usual haunts early in the week, joking and discussing fishing trips with friends.

Consequently funeral arrangements were uncertain.

City and state officials expressed amazement when informed of Ireland's sudden death. Tribute was paid to him by Mayor Henry W. Worley, Bishop J. J. Hartley and L. W. St. John, athletic director of Ohio State university, among others.

Born in Chillicothe Jan. 8, 1880, Ireland launched upon his career as an artist as a school boy, making chalk plate sketches. With the exception of a short period in Chillicothe, his entire professional career as a cartoonist and newspaper artist was given to the Dispatch here.

An optimist and a humorist, Ireland inserted his very spirit into his drawings, especially "The Passing Show," where items of human interest dominated.

The idea of an amendment was gaining headway among new [illegible] on Capitol Hill as members of congress became more firmly convinced as the result of the court's historic [illegible] that they were blocked from enacting legislation on hours and wages

A flat prediction came from Sen Byrnes Democrat of South Carolina close friend of President Roosevelt that congress would submit a constitutional amendment at this session of congress if it found no other way to regulate conditions of employment

If this congress can't find a way to regulate hours and wages by law it will do so by a constitutional amendment Byrnes said Asserting that if congress submitted an amendment it would be ratified speedily by the necessary 36 states

There appeared no doubt that such a drive would be fought bitterly by critics of the new deal's innovations in government though there was no immediate comment on it

Yesterday Rep Snell Republican of New York in hailing the supreme court decision called on President Roosevelt to forget all this experimenting and last night Jouett Shouse president of the American Liberty league in describing the ruling as a stunning rebuke said the people must decide soon whether they wish to run their government or allow the government to run them

Some congressional leaders found the basis for an amendment in a resolution introduced on the first day of the session by Sen Costigan Democrat of Colorado It would change the constitution to give congress power to regulate hours and conditions of labor and also all production industry business trade and commerce Costigan indicated he would discuss it with President Roosevelt soon

Some administration leaders felt there was no hurry about studying the amendment proposal and that the vital thing now was meeting the immediate situation

They were giving increasing study of the idea of a voluntary code structure They felt that this was the only way they could cross state lines at present and reach into the industries with the great bulk of employment

WATER CO. PRICES PLANT AT $1,750,000

poration a subsidiary of the Community Water Service Co paid O F Williams of Boston $889,773 for the common stock and therefore that amount represented part of his investment in the company

The property Mr Murdock said won't be sold for what is actually invested in the plant here in Marion because we can't afford to do it It's worth more than that and we have more money than that in the company

Directors of Community Water Service Co decided last Friday at a meeting in New York Mr Murdock continued to offer to sell the company to the city for $1,750,000 taking a loss of about $303,000

When representatives of the city and the citizen utility committee persisted in objections to including the common stock as part of the valuation of the company Mr Murdock reminded them he originally suggested at the May 3 conference that appraisers be selected to determine the value of the property rather than start negotiations with an offer and counter proposals

Seek More Information

City officials and representatives of the Citizens Utility committee conferred privately for a short time before informing Mr Murdock that a counter proposal would be made by the city within a few days During this conference it was suggested that the city obtain all available information from the state utilities commission regarding the company's financial setup especially the $890,000 item for common stock

It was suggested that the city's counter offer contain an outline of the city's reasons for refusing to recognize the common stock item as a part of the money actually invested in the property and that the plant is worth only about $1,164,000 or slightly more be summarized in the offer

These suggestions were made in anticipation of the offer eventually being presented to the PWA board of review in Washington D C which several weeks ago suggested that the city and water company begin negotiations for converting the company to a municipally owned plant The PWA board at that time suggested the city and water company attempt to agree on a price for the present plant before further steps were taken toward construction of a proposed new municipal plant for Marion

Decision Withheld

The PWA board is withholding its decision on the city's application for a loan and grant of funds for the municipal plant pending the outcome of negotiations

The city's overdue water hydrant rental bills amounting to approximately $15,000 came into the negotiations this morning Mr Murdock asserting the company is anxious to reduce this amount or at least prevent the overdue amount from increasing The overdue bills however were dropped from consideration the negotiations City Solicitor Theodore B Ochs explaining that the bills were a matter the company would have to take up with city council

Early in the conference city officials and representatives of the citizens utility committee explained they do not have authority to offer or accept terms of [illegible] for purchase of the plant but that they would give wholehearted support to any agreement they might reach with water company representatives

COAL MINERS CHART STRIKE OF 450,000

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON May 29 — A strike which United Mine Workers said would paralyze the soft coal fields and involve 450,000 workers was charted by the union leaders today Meanwhile managing heads of the $11,000,000,000 industry strove to whip regulatory legislation into shape to avert the walkout and substitute for their defunct NRA code

Collapse of the Appalachian coal wage conference yesterday was the signal which threw the union strike machinery into gear President John L Lewis summoned his aids for a meeting to begin preparations for the strike on June 1 Existing wage and hour contracts expire the previous day

Although expressing willingness to resume the wage negotiations if any assurance of progress was forthcoming Lewis rejected overtures of [illegible] operators [illegible] separate agreements as futile

He urged enactment of the Guffey coal bill as an answer [illegible] all and a safe haven for [illegible] the industry This embodies a code and would seek to regulate and stabilize the industry

TACOMA ABDUCTION APPROACHES CLIMAX

ply to abductors through the personal columns of a Seattle newspaper

We are ready Percy Minnie

Appears Again Today

That brief ad—the signal directed by egoist egoist in his kidnap letter—appeared again today in the Seattle Post Intelligencer

Further signs of communication between the parents and the abductors was seen in continued bizarre signals from the Weyerhaeuser porch—an open umbrella a sheet a sweater—and installation of a new telephone in the mansion with an unlisted number

The departure of the boy's parents from their home apparently left the mansion deserted by all except servants and George's grandmother Mrs Clara Walker bed ridden by a paralytic stroke She has not been informed of the kidnaping

Earlier federal agents the state patrol and city detectives had deserted the vicinity of the Weyerhaeuser home to permit the abductors to make easy contact

They turned their attention to investigation of two possible lookout posts used by the abductors and rumors as to the curly haired boy's whereabouts

Study Vacant Houses

The look out posts which the gang may have used as it plotted the abduction were in two vacant houses One afforded a view of the Weyerhaeuser home and the other of the spot where George was last seen

Recent fire in a vacant mansion in back of the timer family's home showed some one had been there within the last two weeks A knot hole in a board window afforded a view of the Weyerhaeuser back garden for a lookout who would be screened from view from the street

A stool from which dust and cobwebs had been recently brushed was found in another house in front of a window overlooking the street from which the boy was snatched

While investigators expressed the belief the gang's hideout was probably in a congested city area the only clues they disclosed led to the sparsely populated Olympic peninsula or British Columbia

Clerks in a Bremerton Wash department store told of two nervous men who hastily purchased a brown play suit for a kid about seven Monday Although they buried their faces in a newspaper until waited upon they were described to officers in detail by clerks who had been attracted by their strange actions

Further north on the Olympic peninsula there were persistent reports of an automobile seen near Port Angeles containing a boy resembling George Sheriff's officers however had been unable to trace the machine

TRADE AND INDUSTRY CLINGING TO CODES

[illegible] California telegramed the President asking a proclamation requesting voluntary compliance with the NRA's codes

The Chicago Board of Trade announced it would continue to enforce uniform trade practices and margin requirements

Results Studied

A less definite attitude was reflected however in some other quarters along the industrial front Edward G Seubert president of the Standard Oil Co of Indiana said that we are studying the effects of the court's decision at the present time adding however that there is no change contemplated immediately Officials of Armour & Co Chicago packers reported that they were awaiting developments but planned no immediate change in wage or working hours This concern employs 60,000 persons throughout the world 40,000 of whom work in the United States

W H Loughry executive secretary of the food and grocery code authority said in Los Angeles that price cuts as much as 50 per cent had been posted in Los Angeles since the court handed down its opinion and expressed the opinion that price cutting will result in wage reductions and an increase in the hours of labor

Business he said will have to cut its operating expenses if it is going into the price cutting war

Labor Trouble Foreseen

In some quarters danger of fresh labor troubles was seen should some employers seek to slash wages especially in the highly competitive lines such as the textile industry President William Green of the American Federation of Labor called members of his executive council into special session yesterday and talks of strikes was heard if labor's gains are not preserved

The textile workers said Thomas F McMahon president of the United Textile Workers of America must fight back any attempt to increase work hours reduce wages or take any of the things gained in the last 20 months

F H Massman vice president of the National Tea Co and head of the food and grocery chain of America warned against what he termed ill considered action

The announcement of the far reaching decision of the supreme court he said might lead to ill considered action that would demoralize business Hasty changes in prices wages or hours of employment might affect business and market conditions Chain store operators maintaining a far-sighted point of view and proceeding with deliberation will aid business stability and preserve public confidence

Envisions No Ill Effects

Robert L Lund of St Louis chairman of the board of directors of the National Association of Manufacturers said he did not believe industries would turn to destructive competition wage cutting or any general changes in working hours

At New York Harper Sibley president of the United States Chamber of Commerce urged business men to uphold the levels of the codes

Meanwhile some good news came to the employes of two large oil companies in the form of wage increase announcements made or contemplated The Tidewater Oil Co approved a general wage increase of five per cent effective June 1 while the Standard Oil Co of New Jersey said a similar increase had been proposed to operating subsidiaries

TWENTY-SEVEN
Defiance

matter whether you not'" said Rob-
to do as you're

Leave it to me. I turned most absurdly alike
there, father and one another in born attitude, with thrust chin and hotly

Daphne's protest was smooth, gentle, faintly amused. "Have a little sense, my dear child! You can't suppose that I go about making charges like that if they're not proved? I tell you, the man was notorious. Why, I believe that there were even anonymous letters and postcards to the club, saying that he oughtn't to be allowed in as a member."

"I don't know anything about that!" said Alison. "For all I know you may be quite right about this Doctor Lumley or whatever he is. All I can say is that Guy Westurn's someone else, someone quite different, that's all!"

"I suppose it's no good my telling you." Daphne's voice was ominously nasal, low and level, "that one of my own friends, a girl as young as you, got into the man's clutches and that she disappeared?"

"I'm afraid I don't believe you!"

"You don't think it a little odd that he should turn up in the middle of the night inside my house?"

"He was going for a stroll!"

"I see. At midnight. In the downpour that we had that night. He was going for a walk."

"If he likes walking in the rain. It doesn't mean that he's a crook!"

"No." Daphne never raised her voice, "but it's rather funny, isn't it? Rather unusual, shall we say? Just as its rather unusual that, having run into you there, he should choose to stay all night. It wasn't exactly thoughtful, to risk the reputation of a young girl."

"We haven't all got horrible minds!"

Daphne's laughter was a masterpiece of tolerance.

"We're not all so innocent as you, child! Unfortunately! Some of us might think it queer that he should drive you home, and turn up next day to ask how you were, and take you out to lunch."

"I don't see what you think he could do at lunch!"

"I don't think he'd do, or has done, anything—yet. I'm only saying that a rather more scrupulous man might hesitate before compromising a young girl of 18—a rich young girl!"

"He doesn't know—" began Alison and stopped, flushing as she remembered that Guy did know. He had commented on the fact that she did not know what it meant to be short of money. Still, that fact didn't prove this charge. But Daphne caught the half-finished sentence and she thrust home.

"Most people would think that enough to damn him, Alison, without anything else—to pursue a rich young girl against the wishes of her father!"

"He hasn't pursued me. I asked him to lunch today. I wanted to see him, I had to see him about—about something urgent!"

Daphne smiled.

"After two days acquaintance," she remarked dryly. "Can you really wonder that your father is a little anxious? Dr. Lumley—I'm sorry, Mr. Guy Westurn—must be rather fascinating, mustn't he?"

"I don't see what it's got to do with either of you?"

"You can't blame us, my dear, if we feel you're in some danger of losing your head!" She glanced for confirmation at Robert, who nodded. Alison exploded.

She said, in a very loud, clear voice, "If you mean that I might fall in love with Guy, then I am in love with him, and I don't believe a single word you say about him and I'm going to him now." And with that she turned and marched out of the room.

As the door slammed behind her, Robert Rede started forward to follow, but Daphne caught his arm.

"No, Bob, not now!" she pleaded. "It wouldn't do any good."

"But if she's gone to meet that fellow!" he protested.

"She hasn't," declared Daphne soothingly. "Don't worry, dear. She's probably rushed off to her room to cry—and that'll do her good. The best thing you can do is leave her alone."

But Robert was too much roused to submit tamely to this suggestion. He said with heat, "If she thinks she's going to talk to you like that and get away with it—"

Just for an instant a glint of satisfaction showed in the woman's eyes and vanished. But she spoke gently.

"She won't again. The child's hysterical, that's all. She's at the age when girls do get all worked up and excitable."

But Robert was stubborn.

"Alison's not hysterical," he declared sternly. "She can be perfectly sensible when she likes. I've never known her to go on like this before and I'm not going to allow it."

He took a step towards the door but Daphne drew him back.

"Please, Bob! Honestly, you can't do any good and you may send her—well, right off the deep end."

"What do you mean?" He frowned.

Daphne hesitated. Then she sighed.

"To tell you the truth, I'm a little bit worried about her," she confessed at last.

"What about?" He was puzzled.

"Well—about her health." That came reluctantly.

"What's the matter with her?" She seems perfectly well?" But he could not keep back a note of anxiety.

"In a way, yes," Daphne admitted. "But you know, Bob, these hysterical attacks aren't normal."

"Do you mean you think there's something the matter with her mind?" He was staggered, shocked, repelled at the mere suggestion, even while he rejected it, and Daphne replied quickly.

"Of course not! I only mean that she's inclined to hysteria and nerves, like a lot of girls are at that particular age. It's the fault of the schools. They overwork them, too much competition, and drive them too hard at games. A girl at that age is growing up, she needs rest, care. She mustn't overstrain her nerves, that's all."

"Oh!" He was openly relieved. Considered the suggestion carefully. "Yes, I suppose that's true. She's certainly been very nervy and upset this time, since she got home. But, you know, I think you were right. It's only jealousy."

"No, my dear. Jealousy—yes. But that's not enough to account for it, honestly. She wouldn't get these extraordinary ideas or these fits of temper just because of that. All that talk about seeing ghosts or something down at Watley—and now this absurd, unreasonable infatuation for a man she hardly knows! It's nerves, that's what it is. The child's very highly strung, and when she gets all worked up and hysterical, she gets these silly, queer ideas into her head. She won't listen to anyone—why, Bob, she was talking as if she couldn't trust you and you know that she adores you!"

"Perhaps if I went up and talked to her quietly," he began.

"No. Don't do that. She'd only think you were weakening. Leave her alone now. But what she ought to have is a thorough rest. I'm glad we're taking her with us to Spain. Mountain air, a tonic and complete rest is just what she needs. By the way, has she got a maid?"

"No." Alison's father was worried now. "Do you think she needs one?"

"I think it'd be a good thing. She oughtn't to have a pack or worry about clothes."

He considered that. "I might get hold of her old Nanny. She did act as maid until she got married a year or two ago."

But again Daphne vetoed his suggestion.

"It'd be better to get someone new," she said decidedly. "You don't want someone who'd baby her too much, fuss over her. A sensible woman, with some knowledge of massage would be better. I can find you someone."

"If you would!" He was relieved now. He put an arm round her shoulders. "What a comfort you are to me! I'm terribly sorry, dear, that she behaved to you like that."

"It didn't matter a bit. I was only sorry because." Daphne Sumers' voice grew low, mournful, "I had so hoped to win her over to me."

Alison does not go to her room to cry, Friday.

Circus Major Attraction Here Today

Night Performance To Get Under Way at 8 P. M.

Doors Open at 7.

The long string of railroad cars bearing the Hagenbeck-Wallace and Forepaugh-Sells Brothers circus pulled into Marion about 6 a. m. today to transform the Drake lot east of the fairgrounds into a tented city of magic. The opening performance started at 2 p. m. The night show will get under way at 8 o'clock, with the doors open at 7 to provide ample time for patrons to visit what is described as the largest of all circus menageries.

With the arrival of the circus trains at the Big Four crossing at Greenwood street during the early hours today, there was unfolded a veritable kaleidoscope of activity for the large crowd assembled to view the unloading. The cars carry 20 tents, 30 cages of wild animals, camels, giraffes, zebras and several hundred performers, and five herds of the country's heaviest drinkers—elephants. The crowd watched with interest until the last car had discharged its cargo and the caravan completed its trek north on Greenwood street to the Drake lot.

The Hagenbeck show is presenting one of the largest and most comprehensive displays of "class" acts ever assembled. For those who thrill to the animal acts there is Bert "Suicide" Nelson, late of RKO vaudeville, who will work a large collection of lions and tigers, and Mlle. Maria Rasputin, daughter of the Russian "mad monk."

Trapeze enthusiasts will see the famous Flying Codonas, Aerial Hills, Jeannette May and scores of others. Then there is one of the finest of bareback troupes—the Cristiani family.

Other leading attractions include "Cheerful" Gardiner and his elephants; "Rudy" Rudynoff and his educated horses; Merkels, the human fly who walks upside down; Maximo, king of the slack wire, and many other colorful displays. Indians and cowboys from the Pawnee Bill ranch also are featured in the 1935 Hagenbeck "trick."

Amid the roars of lions and tigers, and assorted sounds of a great circus, the Hagenbeck-Wallace and Forepaugh-Sells Brothers show was unloaded from 20 railroad cars at the Big Four crossing at Greenwood street early today. A large crowd was on hand to witness scenes such as those above, as the huge cargo was unloaded.

Shortly after the close of the night performance the last wagon will roll off of the lot, and the magic train will move on to Canton, where it shows Thursday.

Married Comrades

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Arranges to Eat With Father at His Last Dinner.

MY FATHER smiled up at me fondly as I bent over him, requesting that he come away from the nursery with me, back to his room, adding that I had a surprise planned for him which I was sure he would like.

"Always my thoughtful darling," he said. With my hand still on his, I moved away from the chair, so that he might rise.

We got out of the nursery without hearing even a whimper from Faith, although I fairly held my breath as we went past the door into the inner room where Mary was keeping watch over our baby.

I did so want my father to be able to carry with him upon his dangerous journey the memory he was so tenderly cherishing—that of his idolized baby granddaughter cuddling down in his arms and going blissfully to sleep. When the nursery door closed upon silence, my mental thermometer rose perceptibly.

Neither of us spoke again until we were inside my father's room with the door closed upon the corridor outside. I knew that he was absorbed in his memories, and I was loath to disturb him. But when my father had drawn a big chair out for me and put me into it, he said suddenly

"Well! darling, what is my surprise?"

"It isn't much," I replied deprecatingly. "But you said you wished your dinner served upstairs—and—I thought, perhaps, you would like me to dine up here, too, alone with you—a little farewell party a deux."

I tried to make my voice brave and steady, but I am afraid there was a distinct quiver in it as I finished. But it was lost against my father's coat as he bent over me and, with his hand against my cheek, embraced me tenderly.

"My darling!" he breathed. "There is nothing in the world I would like so well. But—will you not be missed?"

"Not tonight," I answered. "Mother Graham is in such high dudgeon over an unfortunate incident in the nursery that she undoubtedly will ask for a dinner tray in her room. Dicky, Mary and Katherine will understand perfectly. As for the small boys, they will be so absorbed in the lists of pets and toys they mean to take to the mountains tomorrow that they will not know whether anyone beside themselves is at the dinner table.

"I shall ask Katherine to oversee their dinner, so that they do not overeat on the eve of their journey. In that way I shall be free to be with you for dinner."

"That will be perfect," my father said.

"I'm so glad you're not too busy to have me," I answered, and rose upon the word to leave him to the work which I guessed was waiting for him.

"Unless there's something more I can do for you," I said, "I'll run along and look over those lists which I am sure the boys have ready by now. I have told them that when they are ready for bed, about nine o'clock, they may come and say goodby to you. They will be starting early in the morning, and I do not want them to disturb you.

"They do not dream that you are going away. I am glad this plan of going to the mountains intervened, so that they will not have to be told of your absence, or of your twin brother's coming substitution for you. They would have kept the secret loyally, I am sure, but it would have been a great strain upon them."

My father was looking at me oddly, a bit absently, and I wondered if he had heard anything I had been saying. But the next instant he had put his hands upon my shoulders and was looking down at me intently.

"How you attend to everything!" he said. "You are furnishing steam for this whole household. You must let up a bit, you must take better care of yourself."

"You forget," I said smiling, "that for an indefinite time more than half of the family will be up in the mountains."

"But you will have the journey up there and back."

"Delightful interludes," I interrupted.

"But fatiguing," he insisted. "And then, when you return, there will be this miserable business of my brother's impersonation of me."

"I can not imagine anything more exciting or thrilling," I said firmly. "No, Father, I refuse to be a martyr. I shall get along beautifully. Now I really am going to run away."

And with his solicitous eyes following me and his tender kiss upon my cheek, I went in search of the two small boys and their lists.

BUS RUNS REDUCED ON SOUTHBOUND LOOP

Schedule Cut To Half Hour as Passengers Carried Show Decrease

City bus service on the Southwest loop will be reduced from 15-minute service to 30-minute service beginning June 1 it was announced today by Ray Maag president of the Marion Rapid Transit Co

Fifteen minute service was started on the loop May 1 along with other increases in service but the number of passengers hauled on the loop decreased instead of increased Mr Maag said The 30-minute schedule to be started June 1 is the same that was in effect prior to May 1

Under the new schedule busses will leave Center street opposite the courthouse each half hour from 6 37 a m to 9 37 p m

When bus service was increased and the price of bus fares decreased May 1 it was estimated a 31 per cent increase in the number of passengers hauled would be necessary to offset increased operating costs and loss of revenue from fare reduction Mr Maag said

Instead of the needed 31 per cent increase the gain was only 12 per cent largely because the southwest loop failed to gain in the number of passengers hauled he said He explained that restoration of the 30 minute schedule on that loop is expected to eliminate the loss that resulted from the new schedules and fares placed in effect May 1

Only two teams of the No. 1 Sunday School league maintained perfect [illegible] at the [illegible] of their second round [illegible] yesterday [illegible] park diamonds.

First Reformed 1934 city champions won their second straight start with a [illegible] finish against Epworth [illegible] while Trinity Baptists [illegible] from the Epworth Seniors at Steam Shovel field. Reformed took its game 5 to 4 with a run in the seventh inning and Trinity downed the Methodists 9 to 7.

Ranking below the two leaders are four church teams with an even split for the two rounds. Calvary gained its first win 12 to 9 over the Presbies and the St Mary nine defeated Lee Street 19 to 7 both losers taking their first defeats. Two rounds of postponed games are on the No. 1 league docket.

Triple Gives Needed Run

A free ticket to first base for Pete Howison in the seventh cost Epworth No. 1 a loss at Lincoln park when [illegible] Lingle hit a terrific triple to score the winning tally. The Metz [illegible] overcame a [illegible] lead in the fourth and fifth. Three runs were scored by [illegible] in four [illegible] by McFar[illegible] [illegible] an error [illegible] the Metz [illegible] three in the [illegible].

[illegible] the Epworth [illegible] and a tage in the fourth frame. A last inning rally by Epworth was [illegible] short after two runs had been scored in the seventh. Jones Trinity short[illegible] a homer in the first with [illegible] Vestal's six walks and weak hitting kept the Seniors out of the running.

The highly touted Lee street organization was seized with a bad case of jitters against the Irish at President field committing 13 errors. Forty five minutes were required to end the first inning in which seven runs were scored. St Mary counted seven tallies in the fourth inning, and Pellenger hit for the circuit with bases crowded in the sixth.

Calvary softballers regained their old form to defeat the Presbyterian team at Garfield 12 to 9. The game was marred by a dispute and the barring of Kerr Presby hurler for illegal delivery on the mound. Four runs in the sixth on Harting's homer decided the battle. Pohler Presbyterian shortstop hit for the circuit in the second inning and doubled in the sixth.

Headliner Tonight

Weather permitting, Industrial League teams will play their regular Thursday round today. The Steam Shovel-Gasco tussle at Lincoln park holds the spotlight of today's games although the Silk Mill Walters and Diebennett scrap at Steam Shovel field and the Pollak Huber tilt at Garfield may also prove to be closely contested encounters.

M'LARNIN MAY END CAREER AFTER ROSS DEFEAT LAST NIGHT

Challenger Thoroughly Pounds Champ Crowd Boos Outcome

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK [illegible] Barney Ross [illegible] with [illegible] McLarnin [illegible]

McLarnin [illegible] his defeat at the Polo Grounds last night as [illegible] did his veteran manager [illegible] who [illegible] through with the fight game [illegible] 10 years [illegible] Jimmy was whipped with sufficient thoroughness to discourage much idea of making a successful comeback.

Hits Dempsey's Work

McLarnin contemplated retirement win lose or draw in his third battle with Ross for the welter title and probably will make his future plans known definitely in a day or two.

The veteran manager not only insisted Jimmy will hang up his gloves in a heated statement after the fight but delivered an attack on the selection of Jack Dempsey as referee charging the former heavyweight king had disqualified himself by openly favoring Ross beforehand.

Although a large share of the crowd of 31,000 lustily booed the outcome the decision of Referee Dempsey and the two judges Abe Goldberg and George Lecron was unanimous in favor of Ross who regained the 147 pound championship after 15 bruising bloody rounds that had the spectators in an uproar throughout.

On The Associated Press score sheet Ross took 10 rounds McLarnin four with one even although at least half a dozen rounds were so close that it was difficult to detect an advantage either way.

There were no knockdowns although McLarnin's knees buckled under Barney's terrific barrages to the head and body in both the second and fourteenth rounds while Ross himself seemed in danger of slipping to the floor in the fifteenth from the combined effect of his own weariness and Jimmy's final desperate attempt to turn the tide.

Stands Own Ground

Ross who won and lost two welter title bouts with McLarnin last year and abruptly discarded the world lightweight championship six weeks ago because he did not choose to make weight for that class of competition any longer beat McLarnin at the Irishman's own game.

Instead of simply trying to outspeed and outbox his rival as he did in capturing the crown a year ago Ross stood his ground absorbed a stream of left jabs that cut his cheek and nose then waded in and outpunched McLarnin decisively in nearly every two fisted exchange.

McLarnin although he fought courageously and with more aggressiveness than usual demonstrated not only that he has slowed up considerably but lost most of the dynamite that blasted a knockout trail through lightweight and welter ranks for years.

AGOSTA TEAM TO PLAY

The Agosta baseball team will play a Memorial day encounter in Cardington at 2:30 p. m. it was announced today.

READY FOR AUTO SPEED CLASSIC

Indianapolis Track Silent As Machines Are Groomed

By The Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS May 29 — The motor speedway where 33 of the country's finest drivers will risk life and limb tomorrow in the annual 500 mile automobile race was almost silent today.

The track was closed as workers washed away the oil streaks which accumulated from practice spins or poured from crash punctured crank cases. The only noise came from the garages housing the cars. The public was barred from the course.

Toward sunset officials planned to let the speed demons make short test spins. The race will begin at 11 a. m. (Marion time) tomorrow unless rain interferes.

Sixteen drivers tried desperately yesterday to win places in the lineup and six of them succeeded as a cross wind threatened every minute to sweep them into the walls. Not an accident marred the run however.

The remainder of the field had qualified their cars during the last two weeks.

Most of the pilots who will strive for the $100,000 in prize money have raced in other 500-mile events here but eight of them are newcomers. They are Floyd Roberts Los Angeles George Connor San Bernardino Calif Clay Weatherly Cincinnati Jimmy Snyder Chicago Harris Insinger Germantown Pa. Louis Tomei Los Angeles and Bob Sall Paterson N J.

Against the new group will be racing men who have dominated the speedway for years—veterans like Louis Meyer Bill Cummings Tony Gulotta Ralph Hepburn Fred Frame and Deacon Litz.

The drivers believe a new record will be set tomorrow barring accidents. Cummings the victor in 1934 set a mark of 104.863 miles an hour. A new record has been made in each of the last three years.

The crowd increased steadily outside the gates of the speedway. It was made up of persons seeking the best parking spaces for their automobiles in the big infield of the 2½ mile course. The line began forming several days ago.

COLUMBUS DEFEATED IN HECTIC CONTEST

Pinch-Hitter Hits Homer in 11th to Down Red Birds, 9 to 5

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS O May 29—The kind of an heroic performance that all ball players dream about some time or other was turned in yesterday by Bobo Carson of the Kansas City Blues.

With the score knotted at five all and with three mates on the bag in the 11th inning Carson was called in as a pinch hitter against Columbus. Carson hammered the ball over the right field fence breaking up the ball game and giving Kansas City a 9 to 5 triumph.

The Kansas City Columbus game was the only one played on the schedule yesterday but it was far more exciting than the usual batch of four. The Red Birds came from behind twice only to lose in the second extra inning. Nick Cullop of Columbus was the hitting star of the game next to Carson smashing out a homer and two doubles in addition to getting two bases on balls.

Large crowds are expected for the Memorial day doubleheaders tomorrow especially at the Twin Cities where St Paul and Minneapolis virtually deadlocked for the lead will battle it out on each others lots.

REDS SCORE LONGEST STRING OF VICTORIES IN 4 YEARS BY ROUT

Cincinnati Takes Sixth Straight, 13 to 4 Indians Jump on Buck Newsom.

By The Associated Press

The Cincinnati Reds long [illegible] to the dregs have at last taken a long draught of victory.

Yesterday the [illegible] their [illegible] of [illegible] wins up to six the longest march of conquest they have known in four years. They jumped on the Braves with Bob Rhem and Ben Cantwell on the hill for 18 vengeful hits and defeated the Boston team by the wide margin of 13 to 4.

Hit Long Blows

Long blows were ringing off the Red bats. Kampouris whaled out a triple and two doubles. Riggs a triple and Lombardi a brace of two base blows. The Reds now are in sixth place having won 16 games and lost as many.

In the only other National League game played yesterday Brooklyn at Chicago and New York at St Louis having been rained out the Pittsburgh Pirates moved a little nearer the first division by defeating the Phillies 3 1.

The win cut the margin separating the Pirates from the idle fourth place Cardinals to seven percentage points.

In the American League the Tigers took an 8 3 decision from the Yankees by the simple expedient of knocking home runs. Bill Rogell and Hank Greenberg belted two round trip blows to account for all the Tigers tallies. They drove in four runs apiece.

Home runs also provided the margin of victory for the Athletics who defeated the Chicago White Sox 6 5 at Philadelphia.

Makes 2,000th Hit

Johnson chalked up his 11th homer and Pinky Higgins and Johnny Marcum also tagged the horsehide for round trips. Marcum in his first appearance on the mound in two weeks also provided his share of the defense limited the Dykes boys to eight hits. In this game Manager Dykes made his 2,000th hit as a major leaguer.

The last place St Louis Browns took the rubber game of their series with the Red Sox pounding the offerings of Lefty Grove and Wes Ferrell for 13 hits that totaled 25 bases.

Cleveland got to the offerings of the loquacious Buck Newsom in the eighth inning to overcome an early Washington lead and shade the Senators 5-4. The Tribe put across three runs in this frame on a walk two singles and a double.

Owens Unlikely To Meet Metcalf in Track Feature

Negro Opponent Not in Condition for Marquette Race, Will Meet Coast Star.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS O May 29—A duel between two of the country's greatest Negro [illegible] — Jesse Owens of Ohio State and Ralph Metcalfe of Marquette — appeared [illegible] to [illegible] in a [illegible] Mar[illegible] June [illegible] from [illegible] would [illegible] be in condition for [illegible]

Owens who hopes to break the world's record for the 100 before the season is over had looked forward to the possibility that if he had his fellow dark hued opponent he might be extended so hard he would crack the mark.

Still resting from his Big Ten feats of last Saturday when he broke world's marks in the 220-yard dash 220 low hurdles and broad jump Owens yesterday declined an invitation to compete in the IC4A meet at Harvard Saturday.

The invitation first ever to be extended an outsider was refused on the advice of Coach Larry Snyder who said the runner is not in the best of shape.

If Owens doesn't face Metcalfe he will get a chance against one of the Pacific coast's crack runners George Anderson at the [illegible] league in Stanford June 22. Anderson also has been [illegible] as likely candidate for the [illegible] record.

Owens and his fellow Ohio track stars will go to [illegible] after the Marquette meet to return to Lincoln Neb for the national A. A. U. meet, July 3.

Ohio university's track winner of the Buckeye conference also is entered in the Marquette meet according to [illegible] dispatch.

- THIS TEST OFFER -
LA FENDRICH
10¢ CIGARS at 5¢
La Fendrich Cigars Actually Cost Me More Than I Get for Them — But I Want You to Taste Their Marvelous 10c Quality

I'M vexed. And you would be, too. Here I have the La Fendrich cigar that sold for 10c for 20 years, and cigar counters today are flooded with 5c cigars guaranteed to be the same cigars that formerly sold for 10c.

Well, they may have sold at 10c, but I don't think they ever were 10c quality —certainly not the 10c quality of La Fendrich!

But how can I prove that to you? How can I convince you that La Fendrich has a costly plant ripened Java wrapper that blends remarkably with its superior grade of imported filler, bringing out the full aroma and flavor— worlds different from today's 5c sellers!

Well, the best way is to let you smoke them and taste the difference. So, even though La Fendrichs actually cost more than I get for them, I have reduced the price . . . as a test . . . to 5c.

Smoke up, men! While my test offer lasts, enjoy this luxury cigar. See what I mean by 10c quality.

$1000.00 GUARANTEE
$1000.00 to anyone who can prove that the La Fendrich cigars offered at 5c during this test do not contain the same quality of imported tobaccos and genuine Java wrappers as used during the peak years of prosperity when millions and millions sold at 10c
